

SKYWEST AIRLINES LTD
Communications Policy
(Issued 17th November 2009)

1. Skywest Airlines Ltd is committed to its shareholders and strives to report the progress of the business through public announcements and shareholder communications. The Company shall engage a professional public relations firm or company to facilitate communication between the Company, its shareholders, interested investors and the general public.
2. The Company shall encourage the participation of its shareholders in the decisions relating to the business by sending notice to shareholders about Annual General Meetings or any other General Meetings that may be convened. The Company shall also produce Annual Reports that accompany AGM notices.
3. The Company shall maintain and regularly update its website to facilitate shareholders' access to all recent information, announcements and corporate notices and documents relating to the corporate governance and business operations of the Company. In this way, it is intended that a first-hand information exchange will be delivered to shareholders and the investing public in a timely manner. Contact information shall be listed on the website for shareholders' convenience.
4. When making public announcements, the Company shall use all due skill and care to ensure the information contained therein is correct, complete and not misleading and, where appropriate or required, it shall comply with the rules and procedures of the relevant exchange or regulator before publication. The Company shall also act promptly to publish announcements once approved.
5. In the event an error is subsequently discovered in the material published pursuant to clause 3, the Company shall take immediate steps to rectify the material.
6. Any media communications generated in the United Kingdom shall be passed to the Chairman for response. Any media communications generated in Australia shall be passed to the Executive Manager of Skywest Airlines (Australia) Pty Ltd for redirection to the relevant manager for response.
